The General Insurance Breakfast Debate Returns With A Greater Focus on Navigating Industry Change

ANZIIF's 38th General Insurance Breakfast returns on Tuesday 28 July, bringing together industry leaders and professionals for a timely debate on the forces reshaping general insurance.

This year's Breakfast builds on the momentum with a stronger focus on the strategic, regulatory and commercial pressures redefining the industry. As customer expectations rise, regulatory scrutiny intensifies and market conditions continue to evolve, the event will explore a central question facing the sector:

Brokers. Insurers. Agencies.

Who holds the influence; and who is driving meaningful progress?

The General Insurance Breakfast remains one of the industry's most established and influential forums for insight-led discussion, bringing together professionals across broking, underwriting, agencies, insurance services and leadership roles looking to stay ahead of change.

Held from 7:30am to 9:30am, the Breakfast will feature ANZIIF's proven debate format, designed to challenge perspectives, encourage open discussion and unpack the trends shaping the future of general insurance.

A dedicated industry update session will also provide a timely overview of key regulatory and policy developments shaping general insurance.

ANZIIF CEO Katrina Shanks says the Breakfast continues to stand out because it creates space for the industry's most important conversations at a time of significant change.

The Breakfast also offers valuable networking opportunities over a seated breakfast, giving attendees the opportunity to connect with peers, exchange ideas and strengthen relationships across the industry.

The General Insurance Breakfast is conducted under Chatham House Rule to encourage open discussion and the sharing of ideas and insights.

Early bird pricing is available until Friday 12 June, with individual tickets and table bookings now open.

Seats are expected to fill quickly. Reserve your place at the table and be part of the conversation.
