A CAREER IN LOSS ADJUSTING

Loss adjusting is an interesting, diverse and challenging profession that offers a rewarding career path. A career in loss adjusting will bring you into contact with people and businesses from all walks of life.

What is a Loss Adjuster?

Loss Adjusters are there to assist people and organisations at times of loss. Loss adjusters can be engaged by a range of parties for a variety of purposes. They are impartial professionals who are the 'bridge' between parties, generally an insurer and an insured and their objective is to establish an outcome that is fair and reasonable to all parties. Typically, a loss adjuster will be engaged to:

- examine the cause of a loss and apply the terms of the insurance policy to the cause
- assess the amount of the loss within the specific terms of the insurance policy
- negotiate a claim settlement that is equitable to the various parties
- manage expectations – communication, understanding and empathy
- pursue recovery from some other party where the opportunity to do so is available.

These functions point to a comprehensive role for loss adjusters. To be successful in their role, they require a range of both technical and personal skills.

What Qualifications are Required?

While there are no specific entry requirements to become a loss adjuster, most have a background in insurance and or qualifications in a specialised area such as engineering, law, accounting or science. Loss Adjusters in addition to having knowledge of the insurance industry including the legislative framework should have good communication, interviewing and negotiating skills, be well organised, skilled at analysing and interpreting information and able to write clear and concise reports. Many of these skills are developed and refined over time as experience grows.

Members of AICLA are required to complete a four module Certificate in Loss Adjusting Practice within three years of joining the Institute. Completing the Certificate in Loss Adjusting Practice plus a further four modules entitles the member to the Diploma of Loss Adjusting which is the academic basis for Associate membership of AICLA and Chartered Loss Adjuster status.

What is a Chartered Loss Adjuster?

AICLA members who reach the membership status of Associate or Fellow are permitted to use the title Chartered Loss Adjuster. These members generally have extensive loss adjusting experience, have attained professional loss adjusting qualifications and demonstrated a commitment to continuing professional development.

Who can join AICLA?

To join AICLA, you must be working as a loss adjuster, and be prepared to:

- (i) Commence studies to achieve the minimum educational standard (Certificate in Loss Adjusting Practice);
- (ii) Abide by the Charter of Objects and Professional Conduct; and
- (iii) Be committed to improving skills and knowledge through Continuing Professional Development (CPD).

What is the Australasian Institute of Chartered Loss Adjusters?

AICLA's role has three main elements:

- Education: Provides a tiered education system for loss adjusters and conducts seminars and training on both a local Division level and Institute wide basis

- Accreditation: Sets professional standards for loss adjusters and provides various levels of membership depending on education and experience. Members are bound by a code of conduct (Charter of Objects and Professional Conduct)
- Promotion: Promotes the profession of loss adjusting to relevant partners and industry bodies.

AICLA has a board of directors consisting of one representative from each of the divisions: International, New South Wales, New Zealand, Queensland, South Australia, Tasmania, Victoria and Western Australia. Each is controlled by a Council elected by members. Divisions conduct seminars and other activities, process applications and deal with issues at a local level. The Chief Executive is responsible for the day-to-day management of the Institute and is the Company Secretary.

Why Should Adjusters Join AICLA?

- It is a world leader in education courses for loss adjusters
- It conducts training/education seminars on a local Division and Institute wide level
- It provides all members with Continuous Professional Development (CPD) through an innovative on-line delivery system
- It provides a tiered membership structure based on education and experience
- All members are bound by a code of conduct (Charter of Objects and Professional Conduct)
- AICLA seeks to promote the profession of loss adjusting to the wider insurance industry and to industry partners
- With approximately 1,000 members throughout Australia, New Zealand, Asia and the Pacific region AICLA offers networking opportunities among its members
- Members receive the monthly eNewsletter, LA News
- Members receive a bi-monthly magazine – Insurance & Risk Professional
- Members (and insurers) receive an AICLA diary
- The AICLA website keeps members up to date with activities in the divisions
- All members are listed in both the AICLA diary and website which is frequently used by insurers in selecting an adjuster
- AICLA maintains close relationships with other industry bodies and international loss adjusting organisations.

AUSTRALASIAN INSTITUTE OF CHARTERED LOSS ADJUSTERS

ABN 18 074 804 167

RECOGNITION OF PRIOR LEARNING (RPL)

Australasian Institute of Chartered Loss Adjusters (AICLA) recognises that many loss adjusting practitioners and others just entering the profession have academic and/or work experience that will be of assistance to them in their career as a loss adjuster. Accordingly, AICLA has in place through our education partner Australia and New Zealand Institute of Insurance and Finance (ANZIIF) a process called Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL). Under RPL, a persons academic qualification and/or work experience can be used to obtain exemptions in respect of individual units from the ANZIIF Diploma of Financial Services (Loss Adjusting) - the underlying professional qualification for loss adjusters.

What is RPL?

Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) is a process that seeks to formally recognise the skills and knowledge you already have, regardless of how those skills and knowledge were attained. Where it can be shown that your skills match the requirements either of individual units in an existing qualification or of a whole qualification, you may gain recognition for those units or qualification.

This process of skill and knowledge recognition is now commonly offered across major industries and within most educational organisations.

RPL recognises skills and knowledge that have been acquired through:

- Prior training in what may be a formal academic qualification such as a degree or other professional development activities.
- Work experience that has enabled you to build evidence that demonstrates you have the competencies defined in a qualification
- Life experience, such as being a committee member for your local sporting club, which may have built a range of skills defined in a qualification.

What is RPL by Professional Experience?

This RPL process requires you to provide real evidence to an accredited assessor that you have all the competencies and knowledge required for specific units in a qualification or for a complete qualification. Once this evidence is collated, it is presented to the assessor in the form of a portfolio.

Who Can Apply For RPL?

RPL is open to anyone, but is in general most suited to loss adjusters with considerable industry work experience. ANZIIF recommends that anyone applying for RPL should have at least 5 years of relevant industry experience (either local or overseas).

Who Will Assess Your Application?

A qualified assessor appointed by ANZIIF matches the evidence against the requirements to prove competency and knowledge. It is the responsibility of the assessor to ensure validity, sufficiency, authenticity and currency.

What Will You Need to Demonstrate?

To obtain Recognition of Prior Learning for any qualification or unit, you must be able to demonstrate the range of competencies and learning embodied within that unit, course or qualification. Competencies are recognised statements that describe what is expected of an employee in the workplace. They take into account the ability to transfer and apply skills and knowledge to new situations and environments in a workplace context.

Students enrolled in training programs study competencies and learning outcomes within the content of their course curriculum. In applying for RPL however, you must demonstrate that you can satisfy the assessment criteria for the selected unit or qualification, without having undergone the formal training course. That is, you will present for assessment, evidence of the relevant skills and knowledge you have developed during your extensive work history, similar training or life experiences.

What Evidence Do You Have To Provide?

Assessment may be based upon a range of evidence types.

Some examples of evidence include:

- Proof of formal education (for example Certificates, Diplomas, Degrees, and Statements of Results from courses in Australia and overseas)
- Proof of staff or professional development programs and their content
- Proof of continuing professional training
- Work based documents
- Work files
- Third party reports to verify and support evidence
- Observations of your performance by an assessor

Important

Please note that in AICLA's membership categories candidates who qualify by examination as opposed to RPL are able to progress more rapidly (refer Qualifications and Rights for Classes of Membership). Advancement by RPL is available to Affiliate status, however for Associate membership and Chartered status, examinations are required via the ANZIIF Diploma of Loss Adjusting.

CHARTER OF OBJECTS AND PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT FOR THE AUSTRALASIAN INSTITUTE OF CHARTERED LOSS ADJUSTERS

1. OBJECTS

The primary object of the Institute is to advance the Profession (of Loss Adjusting) for the benefit of its practitioners and the public in general through the continual education of its Members and the encouragement of skilled, ethical and sound practice in the Profession.

2. DEFINITIONS

In this Charter, unless the context otherwise requires;

Client refers to a person engaging a Member for loss adjusting services;

Institute refers to the Australasian Institute of Chartered Loss Adjusters;

Member refers to a member of the Australasian Institute of Chartered Loss Adjusters; and profession refers to the profession of loss adjusting.

3. DUTY TO DISCLOSE

A Member shall inform his or her Client or principal of any business connections, interests, or circumstances which may be deemed likely to influence the judgement or the quality of the Member's service to such Client or principal.

4. COMPETENCE AND DUE CARE

A Member must be competent in the practice of the Profession. A Member must strive continually to improve his/her technical services and keep his/her knowledge and skills relevant to the Profession up-to-date. A Member must always use the utmost care and diligence in discharging his/her duties to his/her principals and Clients.

5. FIDUCIARY DUTIES OF MEMBERS

When dealing with a Client, a Member must always conduct himself/herself in accordance with his/her fiduciary duties.

6. INTEGRITY OF MEMBERS

If called upon to give evidence or otherwise speak on a matter of fact in respect of the Profession, a Member must at all times give evidence honestly, notwithstanding the effect either on other Members, sectional interests, the Member's own interest or the Client's interest.

7. ETHICAL CONDUCT OF MEMBERS

- (a) A Member must neither maliciously nor in a reckless or careless manner do anything likely to injure, directly or indirectly, the reputation of the Institute.
- (b) A Member shall refrain from any conduct or action in his/her professional role which may tarnish the image of the Profession or unjustifiably detract from the good name of the Institute.
- (c) No Member shall issue a report under his/her signature unless the work dealt with therein shall have been undertaken by the Member or a person in the same firm.
- (d) A Member must at all times, with due regard to professional duties, act honourably towards his/her professional colleagues.
- (e) Members must:
  - (i) inform their client/principal, the insured and any other relevant parties of any business connections, interests or circumstances which may be deemed likely to influence the judgement or the quality of the Member's service to such party;
  - (ii) at all times endeavour to keep free of conflicts of interest and recognise the legal and equitable rights of all parties; and
  - (iii) provide written notice to their client/principal, the insured and any other relevant parties as soon as possible after a Member identifies a conflict of interest.

8. PRACTICE NAME

A Member is prohibited from using a practice or business name which is false, misleading or deceptive. Practice names and descriptions must not reflect adversely on the Profession or the Institute.

9. ADVERTISING AND PUBLICITY

- (a) A Member may participate in publicity provided that:
  - (i) No advertisement, circular or other form of publicity used by a Member should claim for that Member a level of skill or experience in any respect over any other Member unless such a claim can be substantiated.
  - (ii) A Member must ensure that no representations contained in any such publicity are untruthful or contain deliberate inaccuracies.
  - (iii) Advertisements, circulars and other publicity shall not be of a character that could reasonably be regarded as likely to bring the Profession into disrepute.
  - (iv) No Member of the Institute other than a Fellow, Associate or Affiliate may use any initials after his/her name which give or indicate the impression of membership of the Institute. A Fellow may use after his/her name the initials FCLA and an Associate may use after his/her name the initials ACLA and an Affiliate may use after his/her name AICLA (Aff). Fellows and Associates may, if continuing professional development accreditation is achieved, use the title "Chartered Loss Adjuster".
- (b) (i) Designation of Firms and Companies as Chartered Loss Adjusting Firms or Companies

A Member must not claim that his or her firm or company is a chartered loss adjusting firm or company, nor practise in association with a firm or company that claims that it is a chartered loss adjusting firm or company, unless at least 50% of Partners or Directors of such a firm or company are Fellows or Associates of the Institute and signatories to this Charter of Objects and Professional Conduct and the remaining Partners or Directors agree to abide by the terms of this Charter.

- (ii) Designation of Individuals
Members may display the name of the Institute and its logo on the Member's letterhead and business cards, providing the Member displays that they are a Member of the "Australasian Institute of Chartered Loss Adjusters Limited" and so long as they abide by the Charter of Objects and Professional Conduct. Such display shall be no larger than 50% of the font size of the name of the Member's firm as printed on the letterhead or business cards.
